NEXGEN LEADERSHIP TRAINING CLASS OF 2022

The NEXGEN Leadership Training Program is an 8-month series designed to enhance the leadership skills and industry knowledge of high-potential construction professionals.

Brett Scafidi was accepted into this prestigious program. "Having many of my clients in the construction industry, I thought it was important to join an organization that offers educational opportunities, networking, and other training related to the construction industry. This way I can be a better resource to my current and future clients within the industry. This leadership development program will allow me to take a deeper dive into the industry to learn about construction politics, economics, law, etc." said Brett.

Brett is looking forward to learning about all facets of the construction world: politics, economic and workforce development, economic drivers, construction law, and business development.
